METHODIST CONFERENCE

The Upper South Carolina Conference of the Methodist Church will be in session at Clemson from Nov. 7-11. This is the first time in South Carolina Church history, that a church conference has been held on a college campus. We, the cadets of Clemson College, are honored at having this conference take place on our campus.

Since the Religious Emphasis Week last winter, there has been a lack of religious interest on the part of some cadets. Let these few and the other cadets now take advantage of this fine opportunity, to attend some of the meetings offered to the students and obtain new religious inspiration.

The community of Clemson is recognized far and wide as a church loving and church attending people. Now has come the time to put out our best in showing the Methodists that it was very worthwhile for them to choose Clemson as the place of their conference. We, the cadets, will help, to the best of our ability, the faculty and churches of the community in welcoming the Methodists to our college.

WELCOME METHODISTS

We are honored in being privileged to entertain the Upper South Carolina Methodist Conference on our campus. I know every one at Clemson will share with me the hope that this meeting may be most successful and the beginning of others to come. The Church fosters the Christian principles which man needs and which communities and states use to inspire strong moral standards among their citizens.

The splendid Christian environment permeating the Clemson campus emanates from the high principles maintained by the men who are the teachers and citizens of the community. The women of the community have rendered great service to this cause and the wholesome cooperation of the students has been a contributing factor. It seems to me that the Christian environment has been growing strong with each year and as a result Clemson men have received encouragement in developing qualities which are essential to good citizenship. At a later date we hope to see the establishment here of a Lutheran Chapel and we are also interested in entertaining at Clemson the conferences of other churches.

I know that all of our students, regardless of church affiliation, will be welcome at the open meetings of the conference and will take advantage of the opportunity to hear many inspiring addresses by our distinguished visitors. Many of the students will know visitors from their home churches and I feel sure they will extend to the visitors the courtesies of the college and help to make their stay here a pleasant and happy occasion.—R. F. Poole, President.

Y WELCOMES CONFERENCE

The Clemson College Y. M. C. A. joins with other friends of the College in extending a hearty welcome to the visitors attending the annual Methodist Conference. The building and its facilities are open for its use and some technicolor news and travel reels have been secured to be run on Friday afternoon for these visitors. You are invited to meet your friends at the "Y" and any small groups who wish to have committee meetings here may find convenient rooms available. We wish you continued happiness and success in your Christian service.—P. B. Holtzendorff, Jr., Gen. Secretary Y. M. C. A.

TO ALL VETERANS IN SCHOOL

We of the R. O. T. C. are very much interested in the welfare of every veteran here at Clemson. We realize that, unfortunately, most of you veterans are practically strangers to us. For this reason most of you who were leaders here before you left feel that the student organizations that were formerly yours no longer belong to you. The truth of the matter is, however, quite the contrary. Clemson's organizations continue to belong to you, and we of the R. O. T. C. invite you to take an active part in all student activities.

Even though our experiences have been different, and we do live under different rules and regulations, we are still Clemson men filled with the Clemson spirit. Let's all unite more closely to make a greater Clemson.

Local Pastors

REV. WANNAMAKER HARDIN, Methodist, whose untiring and capable leadership as pastor-host has made the Conference possible.

REV. HAROLD COLE, Baptist.

DR. S. J. L. CROUCH, Presbyterian.

REV. JOHN A. PINCKNEY, Episcopal.

FATHER LLUFRIÓ, Catholic.

PEOPLE

First Lieutenant Paul M. Nance, G. S. '43, Anderson, was awarded the Silver Star Medal for heroic conduct on December 21, 1944, at Belgium in attempting to open a path for his platoon to advance over. The path was blocked by intensive rifle and machine gun fire. During this action, Lt. Nance and his companion caused the enemy to flee their position with heavy loss. In the operation Lt. Nance, although wounded, carried to safety his seriously wounded companion and then returned to his platoon where he refused to evacuate himself until so ordered.

Nance was the leader of the best drilled platoon in the 82nd Air Borne Division. For this honor, he was awarded an 18 inch Silver Loving Cup by General Gavin, division commander in July, 1945.

Lieut. Nance is also holder of the Fluer de Guerre from the Belgium government and the Croix de Guerre from the French government. At the present time he is stationed in Berlin.

While at Clemson, he was a cadet officer, captain of the Pershing rifle team, and a member of the Senior Platoon.

"so they say"

Capt. J. C. Cook, ME 39, to Rev. Wannamaker Hardin, pastor of Clemson Methodist church:

"... went to my first church service here today, having been on ships, trains, trucks, buses and box cars for the past six Sundays. I wore a uniform I'd had on for 42 days and 14 nights, no tie, combat boots and helmet. Chaplain was dressed the same, except I wouldn't be sure he'd had his helmet on for 42 days. The service was on the outside, so the chaplain preached with his hands in the pockets of his field jacket except for gestures. We sat on our helmets in the mud. However, none of the above prevented the Almighty from seeming very close and a link between us here and those at home."

Lt. Kennon S. (Breezy) Breazeale, AH '42, former cadet colonel (killed in action ETO) to Rev. Wannamaker Hardin:

"... I suppose it took a war to bring me around, but I am living a cleaner life than ever before. My faith is in Jesus Christ. Please remember me in your prayers at the Christmas service. May God bless you and guide you in your wonderful teachings. Our chaplain goes right with the battalion while it is fighting. . . . knows soldiers through and through. . . . what to say and when to say it. . . . the prayers a soldier is praying without hearing him say them. . . . Everybody here prays, but I am afraid we are guilty of tempting God without help me on that. . . . When you are thinking of the wrong in doing so. Example: while shells are falling around your foxhole like rain, a soldier might say, 'God, if you'll only save me through these next few hours, I will never sin again as long as I live. . . . O/C William I. Fox, writing from Ft. Benning to Rev. Harold Cole, Baptist minister at Clemson:

"... without the help of God I would not even try to get through the training course here, but with His help I shall surely get through. Pray for me that He may guide and direct me in the trying days to come. . . . Often think of you and the BSU and of what a wonderful job you are doing to promote Christianity in Clemson men. . . . My prayers are always with you in your work there. . . ."

Cpl. Hartwell E. Blanton, Somewhere in the Philippines, to Rev. Harold Cole:

"... I constantly think of you and thank the Lord for the work that is being done in and through you. . . . Thanks for your Christmas letter. . . ."

Bruce Barton, writing from Atlanta to Rev. Harold Cole:

"... When I went back to my tent just before supper tonight, I found a swell letter from Clemson Baptist church waiting for me. Can't tell you how good it was to get a letter from my college church. . . ."

John E. Beatty, Jr., writing from Atlanta to Rev. Ben Clark, Lutheran pastor at Walhalla:

"... I certainly did get a lot out of those Wednesday night meetings. . . . So many fellows, when they come to college, drift away from church. . . . You certainly did help me on that. . . . When you are traveling as I am it's plenty hard to get to church on Sunday. . . ."

Clemson once published the CHRONICLE, a literary effort in magazines.

Talk Of The Town

by L. F. Theiling

Future cadets of Clemson usually hear wild and fantastic tales about the "Rat" life at Clemson and usually dread the thought of entering our institution. After they have been here a while, they usually find that things are quite different from what they had anticipated and they also find, as they look back in later years, that their freshman year at Clemson was the best year of their college career.

The privilege of "ratting" for Clemson upperclassmen is quite an honor and it carries a lot of responsibilities.

A little hazing every now and then never hurt anyone. Of course, every now and then you may find someone that will carry a good thing too far, but he is usually called down quite soon by some of his fellow classmates.

During the time that a cadet is a freshman he learns to take orders of all types so that he will be able to give orders when he becomes an upperclassman and attain a rating of some sort. "Rat" service is the best type of training that a boy can receive to prepare him for his next three years of school.

R. K. McKINNON, CE, '47, is president of Baptist Student Union.

G. Z. STOKOS, EE, '48, is president of the Canterbury Club, Episcopal student organization.

H. F. FRIERSON, PRE-MED, '47, is president of the Presbyterian Student Association.

CADET J. A. DODGEN, EE '47, is president of the Lutheran Student Organization.

—that finally we know why the Tiger staff is having such a hard time. They are all in love except Reasonover and he loves them all.

—that Evans and Frierson are talking about settling down, and by the way, Frierson is really a changed man.

—that Rigby certainly is the "Sad Sack" of the campus this week. His gal got a ring from another guy.

—that this thing of E. E. Jones calling Operator 17 in Anderson is getting to be a habit. Bring her up to the next dance, Jones, we would like to meet her.

—that he (Oscar) certainly would like to know how Rat Capell gets to leave the campus every week-end.

—that if he (Oscar) were a rich man he would certainly send a bouquet of orchids to Mr. Gallimore, of the Seneca Journal, for sticking by the Tiger during the war and doing the best he could to keep the Tiger rolling off the press for the Clemson men in the service.

—that the cheer leaders have about as much pep as a glass of milk. He (Oscar) thinks they would be ashamed to show their faces after the Carolina "pep meeting" and game.

—that he (Oscar) thinks it would be a good thing for the Rats if they would stop beating in the burning lines to and from school. Besides it's not good manners.

—that Johnny Ervin was heard to state that if he had to stay away from Anderson a week he would go completely nuts.

Question of the week: WHAT DOES YOUR CHURCH AT CLEMSON MEAN TO YOU?

Martin Campbell, 2, Orangeburg. A home away from home.

R. H. Burley, 2, 2nd Lt. AC (inactive). After a little while in service we begin to look to the church because it played a very important role in our lives. It continues to be our guide when we get back and start to school again and we are very grateful to the friendly people in the churches here in Clemson for their interest in us.

R. B. Pursley, 2, York. Even though this isn't a denominational school, the campus churches have been a great influence in my life at Clemson.

O. B. Riley, 4, Sumter. At church cadets meet and associate with other cadets they never would have come in contact with otherwise. Also the church is necessary for a well rounded education while at Clemson.

J. B. Lowman, 3, Ballentine. The Clemson College churches offer to the students hours of spiritual fellowship which can be surpassed by no other organization on or off the campus.

C. H. Beatty, 1, Dunbarton. When I am in trouble or greatly troubled over something, I can go to church, offer a prayer, and once again feel right with the world.

E. H. Rhame, 3, Sumter. The meaning of the church at Clemson as I see it, is not just a place to go on Sunday morning to follow the crowd or see what's new as far as the women are concerned, but it is a place to go to rest, to think, and to get new inspiration for the coming week of work.

C. G. Brown, 3, Anderson. Through guidance, church has helped me in many ways to live my life more like a Christian should.

J. H. Shipman, 1, Augusta, Ga. The church is my closest friend since I have come here to school. It helps to keep me out of trouble and furnishes social gathering to occupy my spare time.

B. W. Allen, 1, Spartanburg. I think the churches at Clemson really help one morally, it also builds character; the socials of the various churches helps one to get along with his fellow man a whole lot better.

R. S. Collins, 3, Ninety Six. The church acts as a ballast for me, keeping me upright in a spiritual manner while I'm trying to raise myself in an educational way.

J. E. Williams, 1, Spartanburg. The church is the closest tie to home I know of, as well as a great inspiration.

J. W. Gordon, 1, Willard, Ohio. To me the church is a place where you can go to worship. There one meets other cadets and helps to build a better fellowship between them.

A. E. Punaro, 2, North Augusta. To me the church at Clemson means a great deal. It is the house of God, a place where we can find refuge and peace. We can talk to the Lord and unburden our many troubles. From the sermons, we can draw many good examples that will guide us not only at Clemson but also in future life. It is my desire to see every cadet go to church on Sunday.

W. E. Darby, 1, Fort Motte. The church is one of the greatest organizations on the campus and it will help to bring out the best in a cadet.

C. L. Brown, 2, Anderson. The church is one of the best inspirations on the campus for right living. We would all benefit by attending regularly and taking part in the services.

H. Z. Woodfin, 2, Inman. The different church organizations form a great part of our social life at Clemson. Every Clemson boy should take part in some church activity.

C. R. Carroll, 2, Blackville. I think the church helps a lot to meet new friends and helps us spiritually. It helps make a better Clemson man out of you.

E. S. Furber, ERC, St. Petersburg, Fla. The churches at Clemson are an inspiration to the student to keep himself at all times morally fit for the life beyond college. They add spiritually to a fullness of life as nothing else can do.

F. J. Weir, 1, Newberry. It has given me the guidance that all boys need and it has also kept me from being lonesome.

CAROLINA GAME

A more disappointed crowd than the Clemson fans after the Carolina game hasn't been seen by this writer in quite a while. Pre-game predictions had picked the Tigers to win by three or four touchdowns. But everything went wrong and the game ended in a scoreless tie.

Clemson didn't lose the game by score, but they lost a moral victory. Still it was a thrilling game and the crowd seemed to enjoy it from beginning to end. The number of fans at the game exceeded all previous records. An estimated crowd of 25,000 filled all reserved seats, unreserved end zone seats, seating room in the aisles, and standing room.

Clemson opened the game by taking the kickoff and driving to within 10 yards of the Carolina goal, but there a fumble nullified all the efforts. Five or six times during the game the Tigers were within scoring distance but were denied a score by a fumble, a penalty, or an intercepted pass.

BEAUTIFUL PASS

One of the prettiest pass plays witnessed in many seasons occurred in the Carolina game. Butler faked a kick and heaved a high, 55 yard-in-the-air pass. Eddis Freeman, Clemson's fleet end, after beautifully faking the Carolina safety man, was waiting.

Freeman took the pass in his arms as it came over his left shoulder and raced the remaining 20 yards over the goal. But as on Clemson's other touchdown opportunities, something had gone wrong. A Clemson player was offside and the play was called back.

Butler attempted to repeat the act on the very next play, and almost succeeded, but the Carolina backfield was waiting. Even though the play went for nothing, it was a beautiful play and gave the fans a thrill.

STUFFED TIGER

If any of the Carolina students are wondering what happened to the stuffed tiger they had ready to burn at the State Fair game, we may be able to enlighten them a little on the subject. It was taken from the Carolina field house about 2 o'clock Thursday morning by three Clemson cadets and carried to the Jefferson hotel for safekeeping.

Also during the night before the game cadets busied themselves interrupting the Carolina shirt-tail parade, even though hopelessly outnumbered, hung banners from the second story of the Jefferson and put out some of the fires burning on the Carolina campus.

The fires were put out twice, once by Clemson boys, and the second time by the Carolina fire department.

MIAMI GAME

The football team received another setback last week at the hands of the University of Miami by a 7-6 score. Clemson drew first blood in the opening quarter of the game.

On a pass play from Butler to Freeman interference was ruled by the officials and the Tigers got the ball on Miami's six yard line. Three plays later freshman fullback Jim Reynolds plunged over for the score. Cagle's attempted placement failed. Miami's score also came in the first period.

The Miami 27 yard line seemed to be a jinx for Clemson. Several times long drives came to a halt at that place.

Clemson led in the number of first downs 10 to 5, and missed several scoring opportunities, but it's the number of scoring opportunities that are made good rather than the number of first downs made and the scoring opportunities missed that decides which team won the game.

Tigers Held To Scoreless Tie In State Fair Game

Clemson and Carolina battled to a scoreless tie in their forty-third grid classic at the State Fair. The game was played in cloudy weather, and it drizzled rain a few times.

The Tigers made 12 first downs to the Gamecock's 5 and gained 174 yards rushing against 66, but several times it seemed as though it was anybody's ball game.

Reynolds took the opening kickoff and the Tigers drove from their own 30 yard line to Carolina's 22 before Quinn fumbled, and Meeks, who appeared to be Carolina's star player of the game, recovered. A few plays later Cox intercepted a Gamecock pass and returned to the Carolina 27. Three running plays failed to gain a first down, and on the fourth down Meeks intercepted Cox's pass.

Carolina kicked and Cox returned to the 29. The Carolina line held and Butler kicked on the Carolina 15. A running play put the Gamecocks back on their one foot line, but here they kicked out of danger. The first quarter ended with Clemson in possession of the ball on the Carolina 29.

Dyer on an end around raced over the goal and everybody thought it was a Clemson score, but he had stepped out on the Carolina 5. A penalty put the ball back on the 10. Gage and Phillips moved the ball to the 3 yard line in 3 plays, but Phillips was tackled for a loss on the fourth down, and Carolina took over the ball.

Carolina kicked out; Clemson took the ball on the 35, and after failing to gain in two plays lost the ball on a fumble. Carolina completed a pass for 10 yards, but Hough intercepted a pass on the next play. Quinn and Butler gained 5, but Clemson was penalized 15 yards for holding. Then Carolina intercepted a long pass from Butler intended for Freeman.

An exchange of punts gave Carolina the ball on their own 25. Then Carolina kicked and Butler returned to the Bird's 39. Poe failed to gain on a reverse, and then Clark caught a pass for 10 yards. Running plays moved the ball to the Carolina 7, and the Tigers threatened again, but a 15 yard penalty was given to them. Poe gained 11 on a reverse, but then Clemson lost 15 yards on a mixup, and Carolina intercepted a fourth down pass. Carolina failed to score in two plays and the half ended.

To open the second half Butler took the kickoff and returned the ball to his 28. Reynolds picked up four and Butler quickly kicked to the Carolina 20. After a couple of plays Carolina kicked and Clemson took over on the midfield stripe.

Another 15 yard penalty set the Tigers back. They failed to gain and then Butler kicked to the Carolina 18. The Gamecocks couldn't gain and kicked; Butler took the punt and made a beautiful return, but this was nullified by a 15 yard clipping penalty. Carolina's first scoring opportunity came when a Tiger pass was intercepted and returned to the Clemson 43, but here Carolina fumbled and Sultis recovered. The rest of the third period was taken up by a series of kicks.

During the fourth quarter both teams had scoring opportunities but failed to make them good. Both teams took to the air in a desperate attempt to score, but neither did.

On offense Quinn, Poe, and Reynolds stood out for the Tigers, while on defense Jenkins, Turner, Woods, and Chip Clark starred.

Other games remaining on the Tiger schedule this season are Tulane, in New Orleans on November 17; Ga. Tech, in Atlanta, on November 24, and Wake Forest, at Clemson, on December 1. The Wake Forest game will be the homecoming classic for the Tigers.

J. P. KINARD MADE PRES. KINARD CO.

James P. Kinard, T. E. '22, recently founded and became president of Kinard and Company, textile goods selling house in New York.

Clemson's full back, Dewey Quinn, of Pelzer, is stopped by a host of Carolina players after a thrilling run in the Carolina-Clemson classic. Carolina played a defensive game and only threatened once during the game. Clemson's repeated threats to score kept the large crowds on edge all through the game.

"so they say"

From many students abroad: (to Mr. Hardin)

"... The church letters have really been morale boosters. I think it's a wonderful thing—certainly makes a fellow feel good inside to know his church is thinking of him. We who are away from the church at Clemson at present feel closer by your kind remembrance and will look forward to future letters. ... Want you to know we appreciate your reminder of World Wide Communion Sunday."

Major A. W. Somerville, writing from New Guinea to Dr. S. J. L. Crouch, pastor of the Presbyterian church:

"... I have just returned from chapel service in our little group chapel, where we had quite a gathering of men today. ... It is really wonderful to see the boys, who usually are the grim, hardened fighters of the air, worshipping with great reverence on Sunday morning."

Lt. James N. Glenn, writing from France to Dr. Crouch:

"... I have come to the conclusion that it is impossible, here, to have any peace of mind and soul whatsoever, without first having made peace with your Maker."

Sgt. Charles B. Stewart, writing from Germany to Dr. Crouch: "... My faith in God has strengthened me and helped me through quite a bit, and calmed me down in some awfully tight spots."

Pvt. Carl M. Park, writing to Rev. Ben M. Clark, Lutheran pastor at Walhalla, leader of L. S. A. at Clemson:

"... My experiences in the army will serve me well in future. ... some day I hope to do just that (preach a sermon) either as a minister or a chaplain. ... haven't decided which it shall be. ... have a feeling that it will be as a chaplain though."

Pvt. C. O. Ulmer, writing from Camp Blanding, Fla., to Rev. Ben Clark:

"... Miss those Wednesday night meetings. ... I'll try to follow the principles I've been taught and keep out of trouble. ... We need more good preachers here to help convert some of the boys here to the Christian way of life."

Halloween Party Is Big Success

A delightful halloween carnival was held at the Clemson High School last Wednesday night under sponsorship of the Parent-Teacher Organization.

The festivities included auctioning of luscious chocolate, caramel, pineapple, coconut and many other kinds of cakes. Miscellaneous articles donated by merchants of Clemson, Seneca, Anderson and Greenville were either auctioned or given away to the lucky holder of the ticket drawn each time from a large glass container. With every person in the audience a possible winner, the drawings proved highly entertaining and exciting.

There were the fortune teller, Bingo, and all the other attractions that contribute to a gala community affair. Costume contests and glass stunts, added color and fun to the program.

An overflow crowd attended, including many cadets.

Lasting for over three hours, the highly successful affair grossed approximately $300.

It was an example of community cooperation and parent-teacher-organization leadership.

Soph Council Elects Officers

The Soph, "Y" council recently elected the following new officers for the coming school year: Pres., D. A. Kennerly, Orangeburg; Sec., W. H. Cox, Latta; Treas., J. B. Lesley, Easley.

Plans are under way for a dinner party for dates of Soph, "Y" Council members that will be here for the homecoming game.

Tigers Defeated By Miami By 7-6 Score In Thriller

In one of their best games of the season, Clemson was edged out by the University of Miami by a 7-6 score. Both teams scored their touchdowns in the first quarter. The Tigers scored first, but failed to convert the extra point; then Miami scored, and their fullback, Harry Ghaul, kicked the extra point, his twelfth of thirteen tries this season.

Methodist Conference

sion and has joined with the Methodists in rendering these services and courtesies to the visitors.

Special courtesies which have been extended to members of the conference include: Dr. Poole has invited the ministers and the official delegates to the conference to be his guests at the V. P. I. game Saturday; Captain Harcombe is going the "second mile" in feeding the conference members; Mr. "Holtz" has offered the recreational facilities and club rooms of the "Y" to the Methodists, and, in typical "Holtz" fashion, will show news reels and technicolor travel reels to the visitors Friday afternoon at 4:30; Bosobel has offered the facilities of its golf course free of charge; and the ladies of the Methodist Church are serving coffee and doughnuts during the morning sessions.

In addition to the three hundred members of the conference who are spending the entire four days of the conference at Clemson, many visitors are coming each day. Young people from the entire Piedmont section of South Carolina will come to Clemson for the V. P. I. game and the Youth Rally Saturday night at 7:00. Several hundred visitors are expected for the union service in the college chapel Sunday morning and for the final business session of the conference Sunday afternoon, at which time the appointments of the ministers for the next year will be read by Bishop Purcell. The conference will adjourn at the close of this business session.

Officers And

The Sophomore and Freshman classes will be re-organized as soon as the Senior Class officers have been installed. The Senior Class is now made up of thirty-five men; this is the largest class that we have had since the summer of 1943.

Clemson opened the game with two hard drives, scoring on the second. Butler passed 30 yards to Freeman and it was ruled complete because of interference. Reynolds made three through center; Butler added 2; and then Reynolds crashed over for the score. Cagle's attempted placement went wide.

Miami then opened up and drove to the Clemson 27, from where Hancock broke loose and raced for their touchdown.

The first part of the second quarter consisted of a punting duel between Butler and Ghaul. Butler returned one of the kicks to the Hurricane's 41. Then he passed 12 yards to Freeman on the Miami 27. A yard was lost on an attempted pass and then another heave went incomplete. On the fourth down Butler tossed a beautiful pass to Freeman in the end zone. The ball stayed in Freeman's hand momentarily and then fell to the ground incomplete.

The Tigers threatened again in the second quarter. Cox returned a punt 18 yards and then passed 10 yards to Clark. Butler tossed a good 13 yard pass to Freeman to the Miami 27. But another long one to the end zone was broken up as the half ended.

Miami offered the only threat of the third period. They took the kickoff on their 34 and drove to the Clemson 29. But the Tiger line held and Anderson took the ball on downs. Most of the rest of the quarter was spent with the ball see-sawing around midfield.

Early in the fourth quarter Miami got to the Clemson 12, but were set back by losses to the 23. Then Butz recovered a Miami fumble and the threat was halted. Gage passed 10 yards to Dyer and the Tigers drove into Miami territory, but again were halted at the 27 yard line, which had proved a jinx twice previously. The game ended a moment after another Clemson pass was intercepted on the Miami 27.

Statistics show Clemson with 10 first downs against Miami's 5. The Hurricanes gained 94 yards running to 97 for Clemson, and the Tigers completed seven of 17 passes for 92 yards. Miami failed to make good any of 5 attempted passes.

Captain Ralph Jenkins led the Tigers on defense. Also playing outstandingly were Woods, Turner, Clark, Freeman, Butz, Cagle, and Saunders.

People At Home And Abroad

Rev. David A. Clyburn, of the Central Methodist church of Spartanburg, and pastor of the Clemson Methodist church before Mr. Hardin, will teach the adult Sunday school class at the Methodist church Sunday, November 11.

Mrs. Wannamaker Hardin entertained for Mrs. Purcell at tea yesterday afternoon at the Methodist parsonage. All the ladies of the church were invited.

Miss Virginia Shanklin, secretary to Dr. Frank Poole, is back on the job after a week's vacation in Washington. While there she saw Prof. Henry Rankin, formerly of the English department, and "Snake" Lee, former textile professor. She also saw Miss Frances Simpson, formerly employed at Clemson, and E. G. Parker, Arch., '24, former alumni secretary. Mrs. Parker has a host of friends at Clemson. The Parkers have one daughter named Salley.

Capt. W. E. Awtrey, GS '41, of Columbia, and his wife, the former Miss Helen Economos, of Lake Charles, La., passed through Clemson Sunday night. He has been in service nearly four years, overseas 15 months, and served in the European theater with the 367th

Memorial services for Lt. Harold Major, Jr., of Anderson, were held Sunday, October 28, at the First Presbyterian church in Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Major, parents of the young officer, received notice last week of his death, which occurred last spring during a flight mission over Europe. Previously Mr. and Mrs. Major had been notified of their son's death by crew members of the same plane on which Lt. Major was killed. At the time of his death, he was filling in for an absent crew member of another plane.

Mr. Major is a prominent Anderson lawyer and attorney for Clemson College.

Capt. Burley Home From Pacific Area Has Many Medals

Capt. B. B. Burley, Jr., Pre-Med., '41, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Burley, of Clemson, is home from 147th General Hospital in Honolulu for 45 days of rest and recuperation. In service 23 months and overseas 20, he spent some time also at 204th General Hospital on Guam because of an injury that affected his leg. With him is his wife, the former Miss Mildred Sanders, of Fairfax.

Capt. Burley saw action on Guam, Leyte, Ie Shima, and Okinawa, where he was wounded. Serving with the 77th Infantry Division, he was Battalion S-3, and executive officer during his fighting days. (It may be recalled that Ernie Pyle was killed on Ie Shima.)

Col. S. S. Hamilton, CE, '24, of Dillon, had to make a selection from three choices for a code name or regimental call name. He selected Clemson. Capt. Burley said it was a thrill to see the word appear so significantly and in such otherwise depressing areas.

Capt. Burley has the Asiatic-Pacific ribbon with three campaign stars, the Philippine Liberation with one, the Purple Heart, the Bronze Star, and the Silver Star.

Asked for a comment, Capt. Burley said he is entirely in favor of President Truman's military training program and expects to stay in the army.

Bond Drive Lags In Opening Week

Purchase of victory bonds for the current Victory Loan Bond Drive is lagging in the opening days of the drive according to a statement made by Dr. J. C. Green, Clemson Community chairman, Tuesday. Dr. Green stated that sales approached the $17,000.00 mark. The local quota is $40,000.00.

Dr. Green said also that he and the local committee realized that the average Cadets wasn't in position to buy bonds but he urged that they do two things. First, purchase the necessary number of stamps to fill their stamp books so that they might be redeemed for bonds, and second, to write home about the matter and encourage their parents to buy bonds for them at home or send the money to them here at Clemson for bond purchases.

The YMCA will hold a Victory Bond Premiere showing of the picture "Along Came Jones" starring Loretta Young and Gary Cooper on November 13. Admittance will be by purchase of a bond.

the staff from February, 1940, to June, 1943.

The Commandant's office is also anticipating the transfer of S-Sgt. Bruce Grantham, who has applied for recruiting duty at Alexandria, Louisiana. Sgt. Grantham is now enjoying a reenlistment furlough of thirty days at his home in Alexandria. Sergeants Helton, O'Callaghan, and Cannon, have also reenlisted for another tour of duty in the army.

IN PRE-WAR DAYS Clemson produced five publications: Taps, Tiger, Slipstick, Bobbin and Beaker. Agrarian.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT MEETINGS PROVE POPULAR AMONG ROTC & ERC CADETS

Cadets Have Charge Of Own Programs Which Brings Out Capable Leaders and Programs From Student Body. Socials Often Follow Programs Which Gives Cadets Fine Chances To Make Many Friendships

THE WESLEY FOUNDATION meets at the Methodist Church each Wednesday night at 6:45 for Mid-Week Retreat. Programs are planned by a cadet elected from the group. They include talks by Mr. Hardin, Director of the Wesley Foundation, faculty and campus personalities, outside speakers and student leaders. Members of the group serve as speakers at times. The governing body of the Wesley Foundation is the Wesley Foundation Council, which consists of about twenty boys elected from the group. Officers: J. O. Murray, Pres.; J. B. Lesley, Vice Pres. in charge of Sunday School; W. S. Reasonover, Vice Pres. in charge of Mid-Week Retreat; J. E. Wessinger, Sec.; W. H. Cox, Treasurer; T. F. Dabney, Jr., Publicity; L. P. Thomas, Jr., Counselor for Freshmen; W. H. Funchess, recreation; P. P. Folk and H. N. Black, refreshments.

THE PRESBYTERIAN STUDENT ASSOCIATION meets every Wednesday evening at 6:45 in the clubroom of the Presbyterian church. Present at practically every meeting and always promoting P. S. A. work are Dr. S. J. L. Crouch, pastor of the church, and Prof. B. E. Goodale, faculty advisor of P. S. A. The programs each Wednesday night consist of guest speakers, student programs, talks by Dr. Crouch or Prof. Goodale, discussion groups (bull sessions), or socials. Henry Frierson, of Union, is the president and Johnny Evans, of Kingstree, is vice president.

THE BAPTIST STUDENT UNION meets each Wednesday night at 7:00 in the Club Room of the Baptist Church. The program is varied each time by having different speakers and activities to follow. There is an occasional social. The BSU Council consists of F. J. Brannon, E. E. Jones, D. A. Kennerly, J. R. McLain, R. K. McKinnon, F. K. Norris, E. H. Rhame, Rochester and M. E. Williamson. Mr. Harold Townsend is the Baptist Student Secretary, and Mr. C. L. Morgan is adviser.

THE LUTHERAN STUDENTS ASSOCIATION meets each Wednesday night at 7:00 for the purpose of discussing current religious topics. The discussions are led by Rev. Ben Clark, of Walhalla, and are entered into by all who care to participate. Occasionally the group enjoys a steak supper at the "Y" Cabin or some nearby point. Student officers at present are: Jack Dodgen, president; J. B. Lowman, vice pres.; Carl Wessinger, secretary-treasurer. Small for past two years, the LSA group is now growing larger with increased number of freshmen and returning veterans.

Sec. Rev. John Pinckney, Pastor of the church, is adviser to the club, talks, leads discussions and helps with other programs.

The attendance at various cadet church organizations and clubs on the part of cadets prove that Clemson College "Church Night" is one of the most popular features in the average student's activities during his stay at Clemson. Church night is on Wednesday night, at which time the cadet organizations of the campus churches and church groups meet for religious and social purposes. This night has been set aside by the college authorities for church activities only.

At these meetings, religious services are held which vary in form from highly inspirational religious services to open forum groups which are planned by the cadets themselves. Each group has a director from their church who aids the cadets in their program. This type of program gives the cadets an excellent chance to develop leadership and take part in extra-curricular activities while he is improving his mind in a religious and social way. The cadets have many fine speakers to draw from on the campus and faculty for these meetings.

After these meetings, often a social program will follow, lead by the cadets themselves. These often take the form of group games, sings, friendly get-togethers, and out-door activities.

A CADET does not have to be on the staff to write for the Tiger. He can simply mail his copy to Box 269 whenever he has something to say.

AN EDITORIAL PUBLICATIONS BUILDING

As the Tiger staff works on this special Methodist Conference issue, we realize more painfully than ever before that we need adequate, up-to-date facilities for printing our paper at home.

We have struggled against labor problems, material shortages, inadequate equipment, transportation difficulties, loss of men, inexperienced staff, loss of time, missing classes, and every imaginable frustration that can come from the undesirable procedure of writing a paper in the town and printing it in another. All the difficulties we have encountered in printing offices were real and attributable either to wartime conditions or inadequate facilities for doing the job. The problems were aggravated no little by our inability to gain experience before donning a uniform.

We are eternally grateful to our printers in Anderson and in Seneca for the help they gave us. We are sorry for all the trouble we caused them. Later, it would be different, but our problems would still be myriad. In order to get out this issue, we had to go to Greenville, a sixty-mile round trip from home.

Only the deeds of Clemson men on the fighting front have inspired us to keep plugging on the home front. Had it been possible, we would have printed and sent them more Tigers than we did.

Like other post-war planners, we want some of the things we have been doing without. We want modern, up-to-date type, printing press, and a chance to experiment as college journalists should experiment.

Miliza Korjus To Be Here—Star Of 'The Great Waltz'

To Be 40 Times

satisfaction of knowing that their power to reach radio audiences has been increased 40 times.

The slogan for WAIM was suggested by the late president, Dr. E. W. Sikes. It is, "Where agriculture and industry meet."

In his letter to the Federal Trade Commission, Dr. Poole said in part: Increase the agricultural information to the people of the mountain areas of Northern Georgia, Western North Carolina, and South Carolina. Many of these people call upon the college for information because they are nearer to us than their own agricultural colleges.

Assure a more efficient and a more effective extension program in agriculture. Broader coverage will greatly increase the value of information since these who prepare the program will be more richly rewarded for their work.

Greater use for pertinent and timely dispersal of research data, especially for the control of plant and animal diseases and insects which require prompt treatment for the best results.

We are introducing a program of artificial insemination for animals which will require great distribution of advice and which could be facilitated by the use of the radio.

College students come from all parts of the state, parts of Georgia, and parts of North Carolina. Broader coverage by radio will enable us through our student activities to keep in close touch with these students and the homes from which they come.

The college has outstanding speakers of national importance and a concert series of well-known artists. If we had enlarged radio

We want a chance to grow, to keep men on the staff who put their scholastic records above writing for the Tiger. We want a set-up that will enable boys to help without wasting interminable hours standing around and commuting. We want a chance to do a better job; to attract better writers to our staff.

We want a PUBLICATIONS BUILDING to house all college publications. In pre-war days we published five: Agrarian, Bobbin and Beaker, Slip Stick, Taps, and a weekly Tiger. Only the Tiger has been published during the war. We were sorely tempted to put it on the shelf until easier days.

We are not presumptuous enough to suggest that the News Bureau and the Agricultural Editor's offices should be housed in such a building, but we do see a greater coordination of efforts in such a possibility.

When the Class of 1915 built the beautiful Out-Door Theater, they did a fine job of "singing with their hands." They supplanted ugliness with a thing of beauty. But best of all, they gave something that is very useful, an escape from our drab, uninviting chapel. We are hoping that some class will decide to give a PUBLICATIONS BUILDING, or if they prefer, a JOURNALISM BUILDING, or one just for THE TIGER. Influential friends of some distinguished alumnus could probably interest people in erecting such a building as a memorial. We have some in mind. It would be wonderful if a class should give us the building and let another buy the machinery with which to equip it. We have even urged that maybe some wartime presses and linotype machines might be available to those who ask in time.

We are glad we kept the Tiger alive, imperfect though it has been. We do not regret one single inconvenience or hardship. We are simply trying to be progressive and constructive. We believe that Clemson has a great future, and we want to grow with it. We want a PUBLICATIONS BUILDING.

The 'rats' here now don't know what real service is."

Ensign Morris Cox, formerly of the English Department, is on Guam; says sun is hot, food lousy and the "situation" monotonous. But he's OK.

In the opinion of two Clemson College engineering professors, B. E. Fernow and S. R. Rhodes of the mechanical and electrical departments respectively, the majority of army veterans enrolled in their courses at Clemson "know what they are reaching for and are putting everything they can into an effort to get the most out of their schooling."

Of the 196 ex-service men at Clemson, 117 are taking engineering major courses and in college everywhere it is generally accepted by students that engineering courses are pretty tough—anything but a snap, as the boys say.

While the two Clemson faculty members interviewed agree that their ex-service students are showing an excellent general attitude and willingness to work, completely satisfactory classroom accomplishment is something still to be attained.

"But I believe that most of these men need only time to be able to straighten themselves out on a road to better classroom accomplishment," Professor Rhodes says.

It must not be overlooked, the Clemson professors point out, that most army veterans who are now in college have been widely separated from classrooms and requirements of college study for a considerable length of time. They have forgotten what a tough job it is to buckle down to a text book with the concentration required in order to prepare for classroom work.

"These men have had a rough and tough job of their own to do in recent years," Professor Rhodes says, "and it was of a nature entirely different from learning theories, facts, and formulas from text books."

"In a manner of speaking," Professor Rhodes continued, "many army veterans now in college are somewhat 'in the fog' scholastically, and they need time and encouragement to become readjusted to college conditions and requirements."

Professor Fernow is convinced that the ex-service men in his course are having a decided steady and beneficial effect on the regular college students who attend classes with them and who are, of course, several years younger than the veterans.

"Many of my regular college students have shown an improvement of attitude which I am certain may be directly credited to the serious mindedness and intensity of purpose of the army veterans," Professor Fernow says. "I believe most of my students come to classes better prepared and there doesn't seem to be as much kicking about the length of assignments. Every one seems willing to work harder—and that's what it takes."

Professor Rhodes has one bit of advice for army veterans who are planning to return to college: "I believe that ex-service men who plan to enter college should, whenever possible, plan to enter a little ahead of beginners of a regular term and use that time for refresher courses in order to get back in college ways and be prepared for the heavy regular school."

The Methodist Church expected here for the convention are: the Reverends H. O. Chambers, J. O. Smith, David Clyburn, J. D. Holter, George Hodges.

Captain William Barnett (Bill) Wade, GS '40, of Clinton, is taking Prof. Lane's classes for the rest of the semester. He has the Bronze Star, the ETO Ribbon with six campaign stars, and the Presidential Unit Citation. As a cadet his honors and activities included: President of YMCA '39-'40; Associate Editor of the Tiger; member of Tiger Brotherhood, Blue Key, Gamma Alpha, Mu, Block "C" Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

The following former cadets are in training at Camp Peary, Va.: Horace Curtis, Henry Pittman, Julian Reames, Arnold Jordan. They entered service a few weeks ago, and all are looking forward to receiving the Tiger. It may be of interest to cadets that Curtis was Oscar for one issue of the Tiger before leaving school. All are in USNR.

PROF. LANE has a volume of the 1943 Taps that has been examined and admired by Army trainees from nearly every state in the union.
